

Vacancy      Drainage Design Engineer

Opportunity      We have an opportunity for an ambitious and talented Civil Engineering graduate or post-graduate, with a passion for drainage design to join our exceptional team. We would also consider candidates from a CAD/technical design background with relevant industry experience.

You would develop your engineering skills by learning how to prepare sustainable drainage strategies and schemes for new developments, from early stages through to construction.

Skills      You should ideally be proficient in the use of AutoCAD (2D) and have experience in the production of drainage and/or infrastructure related design drawings.

Location      You will ideally be located within commutable distance of Belfast, Leeds, Mold (North Wales) or Newcastle to facilitate effective mentoring, although other locations will be considered. We offer flexible home/office working.

About Us      Weetwood provides a range of flood risk and drainage consultancy services through the full project lifecycle, from due diligence, site appraisal and site promotion through planning to construction.

Our services include undertaking flood risk assessments, preparing surface and foul water drainage strategies, preparing detailed drainage designs, undertaking sequential, exception and justification assessments, preparing flood warning and evacuation plans, and undertaking Environmental Impact Assessments.

Our projects span many sectors and range from small private developments to strategic sites.

We provide a nationwide service to a broad client base that includes property developers and investors, renewable energy companies, industrial and leisure clients, house-builders, insurers, legal firms, planning consultants, architects, technical consultants and private clients.

We are committed to continuous improvement, innovation, client service, and sustainability and are ISO 9001 and ISO 14001 certified. Our business is underpinned by core values relating to sustainability, business ethics, investment in people, and high quality service delivery. We also support a number of charities through a staff led donation scheme.

Remuneration      £21,000 - £27,000 p.a. depending on qualifications and experience.

We also offer a strong benefits package, support for ongoing learning and professional development, rapid career progression, and flexible working. We are committed to staff well-being, and fairness, diversity and equality.

Apply      This is a great opportunity to join a successful independent company with a fantastic track-record, superb client base, solid workload and ambitious plans for growth.

If you would like to join our team, help deliver and develop our business and share the rewards it could bring, please apply without delay.
